What’s happening Week 7?

Labor Summer Research Internship Program
In this program, students engage in an applied research project to better understand the experiences of young workers 18-29 years old employed in the service sector and attending high school, community college, or a 4-year university. Through this analysis, we will paint a nuanced picture of the school and work realities of young service employees in L.A. This program is an introduction to the field of labor studies and applied research in conjunction with an actual research initiative culminating in a final research paper and presentation. Our student-driven research findings will be shared with a variety of Los Angeles organizations for critical analysis and policy recommendations. The priority application deadline is April 20th. To access the application and learn more about the internship, visit http://irle.ucla.edu/labor-studies-minor/lsrip/.

Spring into Research
The Spring into Research program aims to support freshmen, sophomores, and first-year transfers who are interested in pursuing undergraduate research in the humanities, arts, or social sciences. Selected participants will not be required to conduct research during the program, but will learn about the opportunities available for undergraduate research at UCLA, tips to get started and find a faculty mentor, along with strategies, tools, and resources available to support each stage of the research process. Program participants will receive a $350 scholarship upon full completion. The program application and further details are available at: https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/SpringIntoResearch2018. Applications are due by March 1st. Information sessions will be in Murphy A334 on February 20th and 26th at 3pm, no RSVP is required.

Resume Workshop for Humanities Students
Designed specifically for Humanities students, this workshop, hosted by Kathy Kim, will address skills Humanities students should highlight in their resumes and cover letters in order to positively stand out from the pack. In this interactive workshop, you’ll learn about the top skills employers seek, most-common resume blunders, the art of creating dynamic bullet points, cover-letter do's and don'ts, and more! The workshop will occur Wednesday, February 21st from 4-5:30 pm in Royce 314. For more information and to RSVP, visit here.

Midterms got your stressed? Are you interested in supplementing your studying with tutoring or peer learning sessions? Look no further because CAC has a list of tutoring and academic resources so that you can make the most of your academic experience!

Life Science Core Peer Learning Center
Staffed by Peer Learning Facilitators, the Life Science Core Peer Learning Center offers free learning support aimed at developing academic skills, critical thinking, and independent learning. PLF sessions are offered for each of the LS core classes. To sign up for a PLF session or to learn more, visit https://www.lscore.ucla.edu/ls-core-peer-learning/.

Student Math Center
The Student Math Center offers group study and tutorials for lower division math courses. The Center additionally offers help for specific math courses every hour, but students can also drop by for help with any lower division math course. For more information, visit www.math.ucla.edu/ugrad/smc.

Student Retention Center Test Bank
Students can access old graded quizzes, exams, and essays for UCLA courses that students who previously took the course submit to the SRC Test Bank. Most courses do have old files but some do not, as departments may restrict their access. To gain access to exam files, you must share an old graded quiz, exam, or essay from a class that you took at UCLA. Students in their first quarter at UCLA will be granted access for their first registered quarter without needing to submit a graded quiz, exam, or essay. You must schedule a same-day, five-minute appointment at the Students Activities Center, Suite 105 to access the files. To learn more about the test bank, visit www.cpo.ucla.edu/src.

Writing Success Program
WSP offers 1-on-1 writing and creativity counseling appointments. WSP prefers to work with students who are at the beginning of their writing process for a particular paper. WSP does not provide proofreading services. Daily drop-in hours for WSP are available at the Student Activities Center in Suite 105. For more information, visit www.cpo.ucla.edu/src/writing-success-program/.

Economics Tutors
For students who desire 1-on-1 tutoring in Economics, the undergraduate office compiles a list of graduate students who are willing to tutor college students. The list includes their contact information and the specific subjects they would be willing to teach. These tutoring services are not free and the tutor will set his/her own rates. Please contact graduate students on this list individually for tutoring costs and availability. Please note graduate students cannot tutor students in courses in which they are TAs. For more information, visit http://economics.ucla.edu/undergraduate/tutoring.

CONDUITS

Are you looking for hidden campus gems to enhance your time at UCLA? Look no further! Every week Conduits will feature a campus resource, selected by our very own ASK Peer Counselors, that will help you maximize your academic and social experience at UCLA.

The UCLA Center for Accessible Education is a free service for any regularly enrolled UCLA student that facilitates the accommodation of various types of both permanent and temporary disabilities with the goal of assisting students in reaching their full academic potential. CAE provides numerous disability-based accommodations including proctored exams with extended time, scribes to assist students, transportation to-and-from class and exam locations, and much more. If you think you may qualify for a long-term or short-term disability-based accommodation, register with CAE by providing documentation of the disability from a licensed clinical professional, completing a “Request for Service” form, and submitting the documents to the CAE office in Murphy Hall A-255/A-242. For more information, visit their website here.
